THE SECURITY DIMENSIONS OF A CYPRUS SETTLEMENT

Dr Zenon Stavrinides in the chair

Abstract: As direct high-level talks continue between the Cypriot leaders, there is one aspect of the settlement process that necessarily requires the active participation of external actors: security. This talk will examine a range of security questions and issues that need to be tackled, such as demilitarisation, the presence of foreign troops, the Treaty of Guarantee, peacekeeping and ensuring the post-solution defence of Cyprus.

To find Cowdray House, go to Houghton Street (off Aldwych), walk past the main entrance of the LSE Old Building, follow the road as it turns left, with Waterstone's Economist's bookshop on your right hand, and then at the T-junction (Portugal Street) turn right. Cowdray House stands on the corner.
